INTRODUCTION AND METHODOLOGY

“Where attention goes, energy flows and results show.”

-T. Harv Eker

Introduction

Virginia Highlands Community College (VHCC) seeks to fulfill its mission while constantly striving for continuous improvement. VHCC understands the importance for strategic planning to be data driven, integrated, and shaped by stakeholder input. Fundamentally, this process addressed four areas:

- Where are we today?
- Where do we want to be in the future?
- What do we need to be focused on in the future in order to be where we want to be?
- How do we know if we realize our initiatives?

As we navigate these challenging times, we will need to be strategic in the use of resources to be the best community college possible.

Methodology

The President’s Advisory Council is made up of eighteen individuals from across all sectors of the College to include the President, senior leadership, mid-level management, faculty senate president, classified staff president, and student government association president. The group provides the leadership for this process and the products. Additionally, student input for this process is realized through a variety of methods, such as Community College Survey of Student Engagement Survey process and various focus groups.

This report is a result of a participative, purposeful, and transparent strategic process that began in spring 2017. Over the course of the next several months, the College engaged in the development of this strategic plan. This report is a result of the following:

System Strategic Plan. VHCC is a member of the Virginia Community College System (VCCS). The VCCS engages in a strategic plan for the system. The current Strategic Plan, Complete 2021, contains a single goal: to triple the number of credentials that students earn in both academic and workforce areas.

This single goal has objectives in six broad categories: student access, workforce credential attainment, student success, stackable credentials, retention, and student completion.

The College develops strategies locally to realize this strategic goal.

See Attachment 1 for additional details.

Key Performance Indicators. The College has key performance indicators as a way to provide evidence for effectiveness. The College identified four major areas. The major areas also have multiple data points of measurement, for a total of seventeen specific areas of review. The four major areas are as follows:

1. Student Access
2. Student Achievement
3. Effective use of Resources
4. Value to Community

See Attachment 2 for additional details.

Environmental Scan. The College must have strategic intelligence about trends and potential developments so that we can link foresight with strategy and translate this to the planning and decision-making process. To assist with this strategic intelligence we engaged in an external scan of environmental factors and variables that are likely to effect the College in its service to the community. We focus on reviews in the four major areas:

1. Population/Demographics
2. Economy/Industry
3. Government
4. Education

See Attachment 3 for additional details.

Mission/Vision/Value Statements. In 2015, the College reviewed and revised the Mission and Vision Statements and developed a statement of its Core Values. Due to these updates, an extensive review was not undertaken. However, these statements were reviewed by the President's Advisory Council (PAC) in July 2017.

Great College to Work For Survey. The College participated in the 2016 The Chronicle of Higher Education’s Great Colleges to Work for Survey. This program is to identify great work places and to further research and gain an understanding of the factors, dynamics and influences that have the most impact on organizational culture at higher education institutions. At the core of the program is a two-part assessment process. The first component is a faculty/staff survey. The second part of the assessment process is an institutional audit that captures information detailing various institution demographics, policies, and practices. The survey statements measure critical organizational dynamics and managerial competencies. Additionally, the process provides insight in to the quality and health of various relationships that ultimately have direct input on the institutional culture and the daily experiences of employees.

See Attachment 4 for additional details.

VHCC Employee Satisfaction Survey. The College identified all of the major functional areas of the College and asked the employees to provide feedback regarding their satisfaction level in a 54 item survey. The survey was conducted in the fall of 2016 and identified the areas that needed improvement.

See Attachment 5 for additional details.

Community College Survey of Student Engagement (CCSSE). The College participated in the 2017 administration of CCSSE. The CCSSE benchmarks are groups of conceptually related survey items that address key areas of student engagement. The five benchmarks denote areas that educational research has shown to be important to students’ college experience and educational outcomes. The five benchmark areas are: Active and collaborative learning, student effort, academic challenge, student-faculty interaction, and support for learners.

See Attachment 6 for additional details.

Focus Groups. As a part of the College’s 2017 – 2019 Strategic Planning process, a series of focus groups were held. The purpose of these focus groups was to provide us with valuable insights about how the College can best meet the communities’ educational needs. The following participated in a focus group: College Board (05/05/2017), Community Members/Community Summit (04/27/2017), College-wide faculty and staff (05/08/2017). The major areas of discussion involved the following questions:

1. Are there curriculum or credit programs that you think we should offer?
2. Are there continuing education or non-credit programs that we should offer?

3. Are there things that we should do to improve student success or the student learning experience?
4. Are there things that the College should do to increase our connections to the community?
5. Do you have a suggestion(s) that will move the College to new levels of service and excellence?

See Attachment 7 for additional details.

Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threats (SWOT) Analysis. To gain additional feedback from all employees at the College, a SWOT analysis was conducted in May 2017.

See Attachment 8 for additional details.

Administrative Priorities. During the development of the College's strategic plan, there were initiatives that had merit, but were not included in the strategic plan. If completed, these ideas will improve the College. It was determined that these initiatives could be achieved through the regular administrative functions.

PLANNING ASSUMPTIONS

Planning Assumptions

These assumptions help guide strategic planning by making explicit statements about the internal and external realities that face our College. As a result, the College must constantly be aware of these factors and their impact on the College.

- The combined region of the City of Bristol and Washington and Smyth Counties is experiencing a population decline, and the under-25 population is decreasing.
- VHCC's service region unemployment and poverty rates are higher than the Commonwealth's as a whole.
- The Governor and other elected officials appear to recognize the value of the Community College and have supportive policies and positions to support our work.
- Funding from outside sources (donations, grants, and contracts) will continue to be a competitive endeavor as funders become more sophisticated and a greater number of organizations seek external funds.
- There will continue to be competition for students by other institutions in our region. We will need to continue to brand VHCC as a College of value and choice.
- The student success and completion agenda is here to stay, and the focus on our outcomes will only increase.
- The state's funding models will continue to evolve – important factors include overall decreases in funding, increases in tuition, and a focus on performance funding.
- As a result of the 2016 elections, the Republican Party controls both houses of the U.S. Congress. Uncertainty regarding the policy direction of many Federal higher education programs will create a dynamic environment for such things as financial aid, regulatory compliance, and funding.

Chancellor's Objectives for the Second Biennium

Proposed
Chancellor's Objectives for the Second Biennium

June 2017

Considerations

- Consistency – Familiar format and definitions for colleges and system office
- Focus on completion – Objectives should continue to drive student success and completion
- Collaboration – No one area can meet the goal on its own. Collaboration in strategies, services, and pathways is key to meeting the goal and to developing a flexible, forward looking culture for VCCCS.
- Opportunities for action – Both colleges and system office should see opportunities to change, improve and grow.
- Opportunities for flexibility – Priorities change as funding becomes available and as political priorities are shifted. A broad framework
- Supports current projects – Shared Services, expansion of WCG credentials, new admissions application, new onboarding processes, automated financial aid, Ad Astra course planning, dual enrollment review, VCCFE strategic plan, revision of performance funding outcomes measures, etc.

Increase VCCS fall admissions applications for credit programs to 120,000 in AY 2019.

Increase admissions application enrollment yield for credit programs to 50% systemwide in AY 2019.

Establish a baseline from which to measure wage increases stemming from credential attainment.

- VCCS collects wage data from VEC, WRIS and OMB on all enrolled students.
- SCHEV provides updated wage information on completers by college and program on a three-year rolling average.

AFFORDABILITY AND SUSTAINABILITY OBJECTIVES

- Develop and implement VFCCE plan for transformational change with the goal of hastening economic and social mobility through education for under-employed and lower income residents of the Commonwealth of Virginia.
- Continue to implement and collaborate for efficiencies in college and system office operations through shared services to reduce costs and increases in tuition.

VHCC Key Performance Indicators 2016

Virginia Highlands Community College Key Performance Indicators

Today's environment requires community colleges to deliver value and measure meaningful performance. It is no longer workable for us to say we do good work without our ability to support this position with data. We have identified these key performance indicators as a way for us to provide evidence for College effectiveness. We will collect the data on these measures and track our performance over time. Additionally, we should be able to influence or positively impact the outcomes for these measures through intentional strategies and/or actions. These key performance indicators are critical elements in the College's institutional effectiveness and strategic planning processes.

Population/Demographics

National: Since 2010 the national population has increased by 4.7% to approximately 323 million. The proportion of the population over 65 increased from 13.0% to 15.2% while the proportion under the age of 20 decreased from 27.0% to 25.4%. The American population is aging. Census Bureau projections predicted an additional 11 million added to the population between 2016 and 2020.

Commonwealth: Virginia's population growth since 2010 has been 5.1%, higher than the nation as a whole. This continues the trend seen in the past three decades of increased population in southern states. Virginia's increase in the proportion of older adults parallels the national trends, though the commonwealth saw a small rise in its under 20 population even as the proportion of the population under 20 decreased. The proportion of Virginia's population that are minorities increased by 2.6%. The commonwealth is expected to grow by an additional 332,000 persons by 2020.

Service Region: The combined region of the City of Bristol and Washington and Smyth Counties has seen population decline of 2.6% since 2010 with Bristol seeing the largest decline. The region's population is aging faster than the national rate and its proportion of young people has been decreasing. Projections by the University of Virginia predict a continued population decline with a loss of over 800 people by 2020.

One trend that can have an impact on VHCC's enrollment is the marked decrease in young people in its service region. The under 25 population has decreased by 8% and students under age 25 account for half of its enrollment.

Economy/Industry

VHCC's service region has lost a large amount of its manufacturing industry in the past two decades. Paralleling many national trends there has been an increase in service industry jobs. The Bristol area has become a retail hub for parts of northeast Tennessee and a large portion of southwest Virginia. Area localities have been involved in increasing the tourist and artisan economy in the region. In addition to the continued promotion of the Bristol Motor Speedway and the Barter Theatre there have been such projects as the Birthplace of Country Music Museum, the Rhythm & Roots Festival, and Heartwood: Southwest Virginia's Artisan Gateway.

Virginia's GDP growth has been slower than national GDP growth since 2010. GDP figures are not available for VHCC's service region, but personal income has increased by 19.1% in the same time period.

There has been a decline in unemployment rates nationally over the last few years. Virginia's overall unemployment rate has been consistently lower than the national rate, however VHCC's service region unemployment rate has been higher than the commonwealth's as a whole and much closer to the national average with be slightly higher than the national average in 2014-15.

Government

Virginia Highlands Community College receives funding from several sources. One source is tuition either paid by students themselves, through scholarships funded through the VHCC Foundation, or through federal financial aid. A second source of funding is through commonwealth appropriations to the Virginia Community College System which is distributed to the colleges through a funding formula based on annual FTE and performance measures. The third source is through funding from the localities in VHCC's service region: City of Bristol, Smyth County, and Washington County.

Local: There have been economic improvements over the last few years, but local unemployment is still close to 5%. Loss of industry has also had an effect on local tax bases and has resulted in tight budgets. These tight budgets have an effect on VHCC's local funding. The contribution by the City of Bristol has remained constant over the last two years. Funding from Smyth County has increased slightly in that time period. Funding from Washington County saw a dramatic increase due to movement of programs at the Washington County Adult Skills Center to the college.

Commonwealth: Governor McAuliffe's 2018 budget proposal reduces the VCCS budget by 5% which reduces VHCC's funding by the same percentage. VCCS funding is distributed to VHCC based on annual FTE and performance measures. Recent declines in FTE and equivocal results in performance measures could lead to additional decreases in state funding. The VCCS did increase tuition rates by 2.7% for 2017-18 which could offset some of the loss of state funding.

Federal: The main source of federal financial aid for our students is by Pell grant. Pell grant funding remained constant over 2015 and 2016. President Obama's 2017 budget request does increase the amount of Pell grant funding by $1.3 billion, and President Trump's 2018 budget keeps Pell funding at current levels. However, the 2018 budget does dip into the current Pell reserves which could affect future funding.

Education

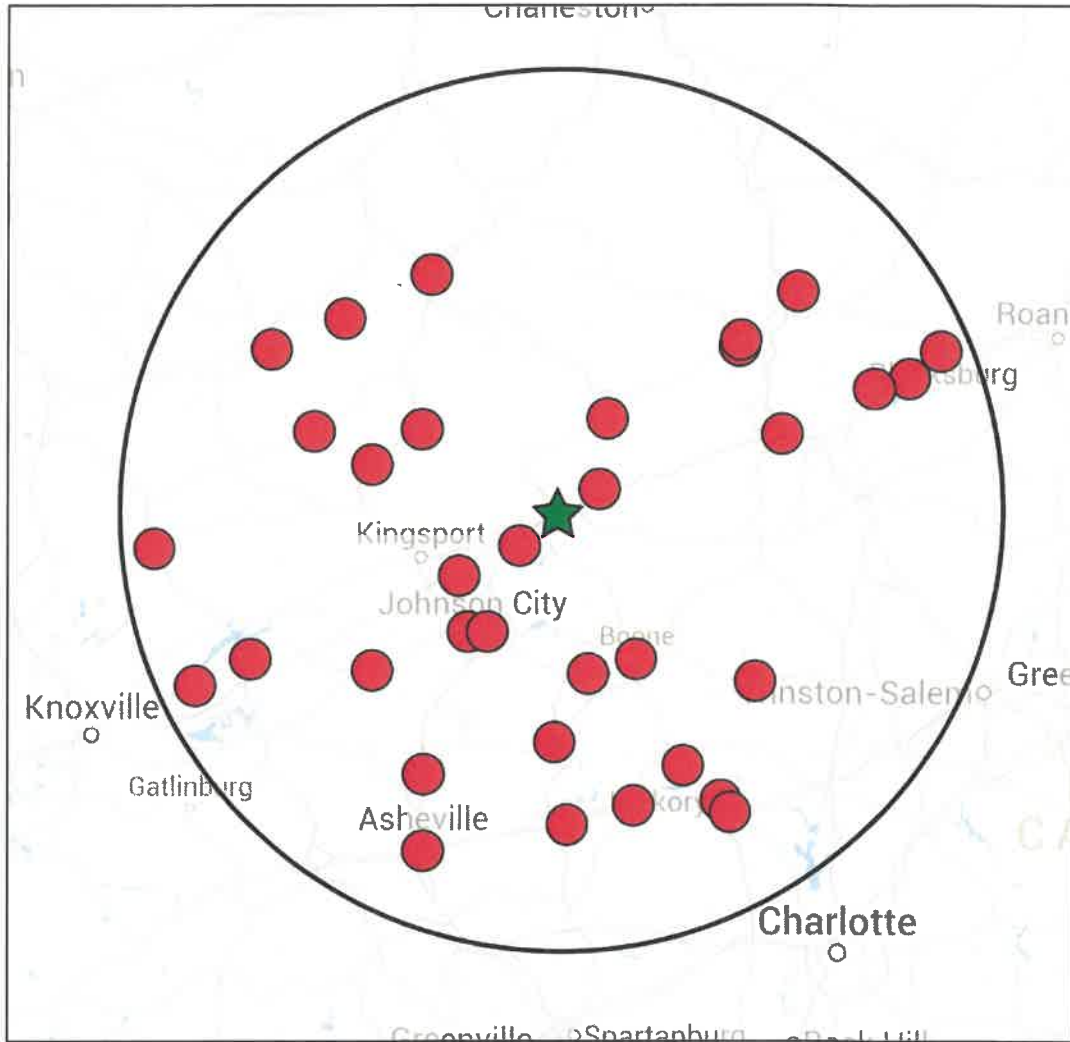

Competition: VHCC's enrollment is impacted by competition from other community colleges in the region, as well as by several four-year institutions in the immediate area. VHCC's distance learning offerings have increased in recent years, but so have those of other institutions which can impact its enrollment. Tennessee's recent expansion of the Tennessee Promise program, which provides the first two years of community college free to qualified students, could impact VHCC's enrollment since approximately 8% of its enrollment is from Tennessee residents.

VCCS: The multiple measures initiative for mathematics and English placement is being phased in. A reorganization of developmental and college-level mathematics courses is underway, which includes additional opportunities for students to co-enroll in a developmental mathematics course alongside their first college-level mathematics course. Another initiative is the development of comprehensive student success plans by each community college along with the development of structured pathways.

Curriculum Improvement and Student Success: Virginia Highlands is continuing the work of its Student Success Committee and tying that work in to its overall Student Success Plan. The college's guided pathways project has been completed with guided pathways developed for every program at the college. The aim of this project is to improve student success, retention, and completion.

Agreements and Partnerships: VHCC has articulation agreements with four of our region's four-year colleges and universities which aid our students in their transfer process. In addition there are numerous guaranteed admission agreements through the VCCS with Virginia four-year schools, both public and private. These agreements help our students in furthering their educations. The college has also developed reverse transfer agreements with five local four-year colleges and universities. The partnership with Wytheville Community College at The Summit in Marion, Virginia continues to better serve students in Smyth County.

College Board

May 5, 2017

Question 1: Are there curriculum or credit programs that you think we should offer?

- Soft Skills- It's been well discussed.
- Continue to push our efforts deeper into the local school systems for dual credit through marketing and influence on the pathway decision.
- Continue to partner and engage with business community to determine if particular skills need to be offered and organize classes based on this as needed.
- Be cautious in offering an abundance of classes with little or no students, where costs may outweigh benefits.

Question 2: Are there any continuing education or non-credit programs that we should offer?

- Basics in word.
- Quick booker training.
- The marketplace should indicate that. None specifically but any opportunities that present themselves with a positive ROI.
- Computer basic and advanced training.
- Resume preparation and mock interviews for older adults seeking a new job or career due to plant closing, layoffs, etc.
- Continuing ed programs to renew licenses for real estate agents, investment advisors, etc.

Question 3: Are there things that we should do to improve student success or the student learning experience?

- Marketing is a big deal... we are not just a community college. We should be promoting the total value received from 2 years at VHCC verse the first 2 years at a four-year institution.
- I believe we are doing a great job and where we have career coaches it seems to be making a difference.
- Work with graduating seniors on mock jobs and college interviews. Many students may be applying to a four-year college to receive a Bachelor's Degree in a particular program.

Question 4: Are there things the College should do to increase our connections to the community?

- Encourage faculty & staff to participate in community activities & clubs.
- Invite community leaders to quarterly lunches to update on college activities.
- Marketing.
- Dr. Couch does a great job in being involved in the community, I think it also falls upon us as board members to help in these connections.
- Connect with local businesses and non-profit organizations by scheduling "Open House" or other events at our campus. Also, visit the businesses and organizations at their facility to do on-site tours. I recently heard that a local four-year college is receiving training and support from a local non-profit to establish a daycare for students that have children and need childcare in order to attend college. The childcare would be offered on campus. I will be glad to offer additional info on this.

- Offer classes in Leadership/Board member training for local businesses and organizations. Training on Board duties, Presentations, soft skills, etc.

Question 5: Do you have a suggestion that will move the College to new levels of service and excellence?

- More full time faculty members as opposed to adjunct or online offerings.
- Tell our story as well and often as we should.
- I think the major gifts campaign is that movement we need at this time.
- Curriculum or credit programs for fire police, EMT, etc. where hands-on training may be scheduled at local community stations/facilities and classwork may be achieved on campus or offsite.
- Host a Career Fair (probably already in place) such as a Health Fair where student nurses check blood pressures, bone density (heel test) blood sugar, etc. of faculty, administration, staff, and students. Also could invite members of community (business individuals) to come for screening (Not sure insurance requirements on such an event). Partner with Mountain States & Wellmont on such an event.
- Host a Dental Fair, similar to Health Fair above, using students in dental type classes in partnership with community dentists.

Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threats (SWOT) Analysis/Summary

Virginia Highlands Community College

2017 SWOT Analysis

In May of 2017 Virginia Highlands Community College conducted a SWOT Analysis with the participation of administrators, faculty, and staff. The college community was asked to detail the strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats facing the College going into the next two-year strategic planning period. A summary of the analysis is provided below.

Strengths

The faculty and staff of the College are seen as strengths. The College plays an important role in the community and serves the community well with its small class sizes, its diverse course offerings and programs, and its affordability. The College has good security and people feel safe on campus. Its commitment to student success and its new Quality Enhancement Plan, Learning Plus, are seen as additional strengths.

Weaknesses

The recent losses in faculty and staff through retirements is seen as a weakness. Communication is also seen as a weakness, especially in two areas: among administrators, faculty, and staff; and with students about College processes and procedures. Other weaknesses are lagging facilities and technology, and a lack of succession planning as staffing changes.

Opportunities

One opportunity is using the resources and needs of the College service area to identify and offer new programs. This would include partnerships with local businesses, industry, artisans, and agencies. Dual enrollment and distance learning are also seen as opportunities for growth. Additional opportunities are increased marketing of our current programs, increasing faculty and student connections, and increase relationships with four-year colleges and universities.

Threats

The recent declines in local populations and its contribution to declining enrollments are seen as a threat. Continued budget reductions and its effect on the number of faculty and staff is also seen as a threat. Increased competition from other educational institutions and the availability of free community college in Tennessee can be a threat to future enrollment. Finally the possibility of becoming complacent and not forward thinking is seen as a threat to the College.
